CALCUTTA MURDER.

STUDENT DISCHARGED.

[Reuter's Service To The "Telegraph."]
London, Received April 9.
Reuter's correspondent at Calcutta states that the student Roy who was acquitted of the murder of sub-inspector Chose and was detained in custody, has been discharged.

A great crowd was intensely excited by a report that Police Inspector McGill had been shot dead. It was, however, an accident which occurred while the Inspector was inspecting revolutionaries.

DUBLIN AFFAIR.

CAPTAIN WHITE DISCHARGED.

London, Received April 9.
Captain White who was charged with assaulting a Police Inspector at Dublin has been discharged. The prosecution withdrew the case. Captain White said the whole matter was due to a misunderstanding.

[A telegram, dated March 14, stated that Captain White headed a procession of unemployed in Dublin, seeking an interview with the Lord Mayor. The police charged with batons, and Captain White, who was brandishing a stick, was arrested. He was charged with assaulting an Inspector, a sergeant, two constables and a mail van driver.]

DISGRACEFUL OUTRAGE.

Suffragists at Birmingham Cathedral.

During the night of Saturday March 14, the interior of Birmingham Cathedral was daubed with white paint almost from floor to ceiling by suffragists. There was even song in the Cathedral on the Saturday, and the building was not locked up until 8 o'clock. It is supposed that some person hid in the building at closing time, and afterwards opened the vestry door and let others in. The damage is so extensive that it must have occupied a number of people several hours.

When the verger arrived on Sunday morning he found the vestry door open. On entering the building he found that white paint had been daubed on almost every possible spot. The Burne-Jones window in the north transept had the words "Votes for Women" and "Stop forcible feeding" daubed across it in large white letters. It is doubtful whether the paint can be removed without some permanent damage to the stained glass figures. Painted on the vestry door from top to bottom were the words "The clergy must rise on our behalf." Every pillar was disfigured with the words "Votes for Women," and the floors of the aisles were similarly treated. The same inscription was painted in large letters on the fronts of the side galleries, the words running from end to end, and the pulpit also was disfigured. The front of the organ, beyond the communion rails, was splashed with paint. It is thought that there was probably sufficient light from the lamps outside the Cathedral to enable the intruders to carry out their work without carrying lights. Many of the letters are a foot long. It is believed that it will cost several hundred pounds to repair the damage. There is no clue to the identity of those who committed the outrage.

THEIR MAJESTIES.

VISIT TO PARIS.

[Reuter's Service To The "Telegraph."]
London, Received April 9.
Reuter's correspondent at Paris states that in connection with the visit of the Their Majesties the newspapers have articles and interviews including such items as M. Doumergue and M. Pichon, on the subject of the approaching tenth anniversary of the entente cordiale. They dwell on the value of the friendship between France and England.

ARMY CHANGE.

GENERAL EWART'S SUCCESSOR.

London, Received April 9.
It is officially announced that Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Oricht-Solator, K.C.B., is to succeed General Ewart.
[General Solator entered the army in 1875 became captain in 1881, brevet-major in 1885, lieutenant-colonel in 1900, and lieutenant-general in 1911. He served in the Nile expedition in 1884-1885 and was mentioned in despatches. He was also mentioned in the South African War. He was thrice mentioned in despatches during that war. He was quarter-master general in India from 1904 to 1908 and commanded the Quetta division from 1908 to 1912.]

Some Drastic Proposals

Dr Charles Mercier writes to the Times—Every one agrees that the silly crimes of the militant suffragists should be suppressed, and that the measures hitherto adopted are futile; surely it is time that other measures were tried. The criminals nullify the action of the law by attempting to starve themselves, and the authorities, dreading the outcry that they suppose would follow the death of one of the criminals in prison, give way and liberate them. I think the authorities are mistaken in supposing there would be any considerable outcry. I believe the general verdict would be "Serve her right." It is certain that public opinion is rapidly hardening in this direction.

I suggest that the value of human lives is as much over-estimated now as it was under-estimated 100 years ago.
The systematic and successful defiance of the law is a menace to the life of the nation. If it were to become general—and it is certainly spreading—society would break up, lawlessness would lead to anarchy, anarchy would end in barbarism. Compared with this result, what are the lives of a few women of questionable sanity and unquestionable folly.

If, however, the responsible authorities shrink from allowing criminals to inflict upon themselves the death sentence, other measures can be adopted. These criminals, with the want of logic and want of humour that characterize all their silly proceedings are prompt to invoke the protection and the benefits of that very law that they seek to destroy. If the law had a proper regard for its own dignity it would, without drawing its protection from those who seek to degrade it. They should be proclaimed outlaws; their contracts should not be enforceable; they should be made incapable of taking legal proceedings of any kind, civil or criminal. When the consequences of lawlessness had thus been brought home to them we should soon hear the last of attempts to nullify the law, man made though it is.

KAISER AND CZAR.

AN UNPLEASANT INCIDENT.

[Reuter's Service To The "Telegraph."]
London, Received April 9.
Reuter's correspondent at Berlin states that the newspapers allege that the Kaiser has written the Czar a personal letter regarding an aeronaut who was detained at Perm on a charge of espionage after a record balloon voyage from Germany. He requests the Czar to do his best to expedite to close an unpleasant incident.

AVIATION FATALITY.

PUPIL KILLED.

London, Received April 9.
Sergeant Jeane while aeroplaning at Brooklands for a pupil's certificate, ascended a thousand feet, spiralled too sharply and was killed.

HOME POLITICS.

PRIME MINISTER UNOPPPOSED.

London, Received April 9.
Mr. Asquith has been returned unopposed for East Fife.

House Adjourns.

The House of Commons has adjourned until April 14.

SOME GOLF "DON'TS."

Such instruction as I have gained from textbooks has almost invariably been of a negative kind, says Mark Allerton in the Observer. The commonplace inculcated finds it easier to understand what he ought not to do than what he ought to do. Just as the child is forced to a realization of the moral and social code by first doing what is wrong, by being told not to do it again, and (as a last resort) by suffering because of a repetition of the offence, so is the golf beginner led, through tribulation and pain, to a knowledge of what is right.

In an old volume of an organ of the game I have come across a list of "Things to Avoid." Worded differently, they make up fourteen of the most serviceable "Don'ts" that one may find. They would run as follows:—

- (a) Don't look at the top of the ball, but at the right side.
- (b) Don't draw the arms towards the body.
- (c) Don't use a high tee.
- (d) Don't take the club back too quickly.
- (e) Don't make a perceptible pause on the up-stroke.
- (f) Don't press (i.e., don't try to hit hard until you are satisfied you can hit correctly).
- (g) Don't spend too much time wagging your club.
- (h) Don't strike the shoulder with the club.
- (i) Don't overawing. You will get better results if your club does not pass the horizontal.
- (j) Don't away the body.
- (k) Don't drop the right shoulder. A great many fine players do. Wait until you are a fine player before you do.
- (l) Keep a good hold of your club. It is no excuse to say, "The club turned in my hand." You had no business to let it turn.
- (m) Don't stand too near the ball.
- (n) Don't turn the body before the club.

KING OF SWEDEN.

OPERATED UPON TO-DAY.

[Reuter's Service To The "Telegraph."]
London, Received April 9.
Reuter's correspondent at Stockholm states that the King of Sweden is not in bed. He is presiding over a cabinet meeting for the purpose of constituting a provisional government under the Crown Prince. He is to enter the Sophia Hospital to-night (Wednesday) and will be operated upon to-morrow.

CHINA MERCHANTS COMPANY.

QUESTION IN THE COMMONS.

London, Received April 9.
In the House of Commons Sir J. D. Rees asked whether Japan had acquired a controlling interest in the China Merchant's Steam Navigation Company and also whether the Government proposed to take action to protect British interests in the Yangtze by assisting China with a loan for the purchase of the China Merchants Company and the Han-Yehing Corporation which would also be acquired by Japan.

No Loan.

Mr. Acland replied in the negative regarding the China Merchants Company. He added that the Government were fully alive to the necessity of safeguarding British interests in the Yangtze but there could be no question of a loan.

PANAMA CONTROVERSY.

SETBACK FOR DEMOCRATS.

[Reuter's Service To The "Telegraph."]
London, Received April 9.
The Panama controversy is daily engendering increased heat, greatly to the detriment of relations between Britain and America.

The opponent of President Wilson's toll policy has been elected by a sweeping majority as congressman for New Jersey, the President's state, thus replacing the deceased democrat.

Americo-Colombia Treaty.

Reuter's correspondent at Washington writes that the Americo-Colombia Treaty has been signed giving both parties to it equal rights in the canal, and paying Colombia a heavy indemnity for the loss of Panama.

SEALING DISASTER.

SOUTHERN CROSS ABANDONED.

London, Received April 9.
Reuter's correspondent at St. John's reports that the search for the Southern Cross has been abandoned, and to-morrow the sealers are returning owing to the poor prospects of the remainder of the season.

the result of a bye-election or the state of the greens. If your opponent wishes to talk you must, as Mr. Haultain mildly suggests, "edge away from him." You may not seek to silence him by violence, for that would put you off your game.

The complete golfer who follows this advice ought to win a lot of his matches. There is just too chance, however, that he may experience a little difficulty in finding opponents.

THE KING AND BOXING.

Regimental Display By The Guards.

The King's presence on March 16 at the tournament of the 2nd Life Guards at the Regent's Park Barracks was a fresh proof of the close attention with which he follows the development of all sports and conditions of sport, says the Times.

The setting for the display was British and masculine. From end to end the large riding school, brilliantly lit with electric light round the 16th ring, but dark with clouds of tobacco smoke in the far corners, was packed with men, mostly friends of the regiment, in muffin.

The preliminary contests consisted chiefly of hard-hitting bouts between likely-looking pairs of recruits, which vastly amused the audience. They were, however, generous in their applause, and the loudest cheers were given to a beaten man, Corporal Allan, of the Horse Yeomanry, for the pluck which he showed in a losing contest.

A Spirited Exhibition.

At 9.45 the King, who had dined at mess with the officers of the 2nd Life Guards, entered the Riding School, attended by Sir Derek Keppel, Admiral Seymour, Colonel Sir Harry Legge, Lord Dundonald, the Colonel of the regiment, General Sir F. Lloyd, Lieutenant-Colonel A. F. H. Ferguson, Prince Alexander of WOMEN CLOSE BAR-ROOMS.

[Reuter's Service To The "Telegraph."]
London, Received April 9.
Nine women candidates for the positions of Alderman in Chicago were overwhelmingly defeated. The majority of the women supported the Male Candidates.

Outside Chicago, however, the women voters succeeded in closing a thousand bar-rooms in the smaller cities and towns.

PREMIER'S CONFERENCE.

AUSTRALIA AND IMMIGRATION.

London, Received April 9.
Reuter's correspondent at Melbourne reports that the Premier's conference concluded in a most successful manner. The conference expressed its gratification at the Premier's intimation that the Commonwealth is prepared to contribute one hundred and fifty thousand pounds yearly, to promote immigration.

Teck, and the other officers of the regiment, all in evening dress.

His Majesty, who was received with the playing of the National Anthem, was just in time to see the last round of a spirited exhibition between Digby Stanley, the present bantam champion, and Wallie Morgan, his trainer. This was followed by a three-round contest between two big recruits of the 2nd Life Guards, which was won by Trooper Treen. Then, after a salute to the King, came a sabre contest, civilian against soldier, between Mr. A. Ridley-Martin, last year's amateur sabre champion, and Corporal-Major Grainger, of the 2nd Life Guards, in which the soldier who was best man-at-arms in 1912 and 1913, was the winner, after an exhibition of quick and exciting sword-play. The next bout, again between a civilian and a soldier, was a three-round sparring exhibition, in which both Mr. E. V. Chandler, the middle-weight amateur champion in 1912, and Sergeant P. McEnroy, of the Irish Guards, middle-weight Army and Navy champion, showed excellent form.

It was an evening of champions. Two more of them, Mr. S. V. Bacon and Mr. E. H. Bacon, each of whom has won several wrestling championships in the last five or six years, next entered the ring, and wrestled two hard-breathing five-minute rounds, first in the Cumberland and Westmorland and then in the catch-as-catch-can styles, which the King followed with the interest that he showed in the whole programme.

Wells v. O'Keefe.

In the three-round exhibition between Bombardier Wells and Pat O'Keefe, both men, as became the heavy and middle-weight champions of England, gave a very pretty display of sparring, though Wells always looked as if he was playing with his man. The next event, which should have been a six-round contest between Corporal Pay and Trooper Bradshaw, was very much the real thing. Both men are exceptionally big and strong, and both hit tremendously hard, and it was a disappointment when Corporal Pay knocked his man out in the first round.

Reduction in Garrison.
Officially the greatest explanation as being due to plot to organize a third revolution. Reports privately communicated put a rather different aspect on the situation to that which is given in the native Press, which has been actually muzzled by the Government. The Press represents that the troops are coping effectually with the disturbances; but private reports represent the troops as brigands infinitely worse than those they have been sent to suppress. In short, a review of the general situation in China hardly warrants the belief that the time has arrived when a reduction in the strength of the British Garrison in China may be made with perfect safety. It is true that the disturbing elements have hitherto abstained from attacking foreign property, but we shall be doing them an injustice, we think, if we attribute this more to the moral effect of the proximity of fairly strong foreign garrisons than to any other consideration. It does not seem to us that the Powers can afford to weaken this influence upon the situation by reducing their garrisons while the state of affairs in China is such as it is at the present moment.

South China Morning Post.

France and China.
The presumption that France would deliberately place obstructions in the way of China's progress, in spite of her position in all that is best in modern civilization and progress, was generally entertained with doubt, but the seemingly authoritative statement quoted above caused at least one influential northern contemporary to declare that France had "wholly given herself up to mean backbiting" and had "wholly forgotten that she is capable of better things." That this is not so is a matter for congratulation on both sides; to China because it provides ways and means for relieving present difficulties by the certain assurance that nothing now stands in the way of arrangements for further advances from the Quintuple Group, and to France because the national idealism, which has heretofore stimulated an enlightened interest in China and has sought to advance her higher interests, has prevailed against intense commercialism which would have inflected coercive, intolerant and utterly selfish terms upon China.

China Mail.

Kwangsai.

One reads with sadness the traveller's references to the condition of affairs in respect to vice. He says that in some of the larger cities the houses of vice really outnumber those of cities like Canton, and no one seems ashamed to be associated therewith. A firm takes possession of the brothels, as they would do with any other business, pays the Government a certain sum per year. Then the members of the firm, which controls the affair, are at liberty to do what they like to get back their capital with interest. An account is given of the very shocking condition of affairs. Men who are hard up sell their wives, and parents who want money sell their daughters, and they are then taken into these houses. There frequently they are very cruelly treated by their owners. It matters not whether they are sick or whether they are diseased, though they are known by their owners to be both the one and the other, they must still obey their tyrannical mistresses or they are thrashed most unmercifully. Truly, it is a wretched picture that he paints of the condition of affairs in regard to this horrible life.

The London County Council at a recent meeting unanimously elected Lord Peel as Chairman for the ensuing year, with Mr. O. A. Goodrich (M.R.) as Vice-Chairman, and Mr. H. S. Cotton as Deputy Chairman.

Family's Tragic Record.
A Carlisle butcher named Thomas Hind Pattinson, aged 38, shot himself through the head with a humane killer at the Carlisle public slaughterhouse recently. His wife committed suicide by hanging about two years ago, and his father was found dead in a quarry.

Historic Colours for Territorials.
The old colours of the Chesham and Duffield Militia, one of the regiments raised during the Napoleonic wars, have been presented to the Chesham Regiment of Territorials.

Discovery of Tudor House.
The Red Lion Hotel, the most ancient hostelry in Colchester, is at present in the hands of workmen, and the removal of a portion of the plaster on the front of the building revealed some fine architectural work of the Tudor period. Further investigations were made, the hotel being stripped of all its plaster for the purpose, and many fine old oak beams and a wealth of carved panelling were disclosed. An ancient axe was found embedded between two laths over a mantelpiece.

The City and the Crystal Palace.
The Over-seer's Committee of the City Corporation have recommended that the amount to be provided out of the general rate—£20,000—towards the acquisition of the Crystal Palace should be raised by loan and the repayment spread over 20 years.

Exhibition of Old English Furniture.

The London County Council propose shortly to open a museum, chiefly of furniture, in the Ironmongers' almshouses, Kingsland road, Shoreditch. The building, which is an admirable specimen of early 18th century work, was originally erected by Sir Robert Geffrye for his almshouses.

Retirement of Mr. Baggeley.
Mr. Ernest Baggeley, the Metropolitan magistrate, has resigned on the ground of ill-health. About a year ago he had a serious illness which kept him off the Bench for over six months. He was appointed a London magistrate in 1901.

Body Found through a Dream.
Evidence of a dream which came true was given at Wolverhampton at an inquiry into the death of Benjamin Plimmer, whose body was found in the cellar of his father's house, where it had been hiding for a fortnight. It was thought that Plimmer had gone to Middlesbrough in search of work. His sister dreamt that her brother had committed suicide in the cellar, and this led to the search and discovery of his death.

EDITOR MURDERED.

Shot by Minister's wife.

The bitter conflict which has raged round the person of M. Caillaux has come to a tragic climax.

At 6.30 p.m. on March 10, Mme. Caillaux, the wife of the Finance Minister, drove to the office of the Figaro. Sending a card she asked to see M. Caillaux. Immediately on entering his room Mme. Caillaux fired a Browning pistol five times. All five shots took effect and M. Caillaux fell back in his chair. He died at 12.40 next morning in a nursing home.

The event has caused great excitement and may have important political results. There have been violent demonstrations in the streets of Paris. M. Caillaux has resigned his office in the Ministry.

The Times correspondent, writing on March 17, says:— "Information collected this morning makes it possible to reconstruct in every detail last night's drama, in which Mme. Caillaux murdered M. Gaston Calmette, the editor of the Figaro."

Mme. Caillaux had visited M. Calmette, President of the Tribunal of the Seine, in the morning and returned from the interview resolved to commit the deed, which, she had convinced herself, was the only means of saving her husband from persecution. Early in the afternoon she went out and bought a pistol which she hid in a cloak in a box in her dressing room.

At 5 o'clock she went out to the office of the Figaro. M. Calmette was not there. She refused to give her name, but remained in the waiting-room. Shortly before 6.30 M. Calmette entered the building in the company of M. Paul Bourget. Mme. Caillaux sent in a card in an envelope. "As she is a lady I cannot refuse to see her," said M. Calmette to M. Bourget, and Mme. Caillaux was shown into his room.

No sooner had she shut the door than the five shots were fired in quick succession, three of them entering his body. M. Calmette staggered and then collapsed, and the staff of the Figaro came rushing in from neighbouring rooms to find their chief gasping in his chair, while Mme. Caillaux stood calm and self-possessed against the opposite wall, her arm held by the servant who had shown her up.

The scene which followed was extraordinary. Every one was too amazed to pay attention to anybody but the two chief actors in the drama, and a mingled crowd of journalists and passers-by pressed unchecked into the room, where one of the Figaro staff, who had a medical diploma, was giving first aid to the wounded man. A few words passed between M. Calmette's lips. "I am giving you a lot of trouble," he said, and presently he asked that his portfolio, which was full of papers, might be put in a safe place.

The Prisoner's Statement.
It was 20 minutes or so before the police arrived and took Mme. Caillaux in charge. She was then taken off in her own motor-car to the police station in the Faubourg Montmartre.

For an hour and a half she was questioned by the examining magistrate, replying calmly to his questions about her motives. "M. Calmette," she said, "published a private letter sent years ago by M. Caillaux to a lady friend, and I had learned that he was about to publish in the same way strictly private correspondence between my husband and myself. I saw that there was only one thing to do—to put an end to the campaign." She added later, "I did not intend to kill him; I only wished to give him a lesson."

M. Caillaux had been at the Senate during the afternoon. On his return to the Ministry of Finance he heard by telephone of his wife's arrest, and at once went to the police station. He was stopped at the door by a police officer. "I am the Minister of Finance," he said, as he brushed past, and then added, "don't you think you might salute?" On M. Caillaux's arrival the examining magistrate asked the crowd of journalists who filled the police station to withdraw, and husband and wife were left together.

A NEW ANÆSTHETIC.

Prevention of Heart Failure in Operation.

Some interesting experiments with a new anæsthetic, which it is believed may prove of great service, are at present being conducted on animals in a Cambridge laboratory. The anæsthetic is a substance which has for a considerable time been familiar to medical men and chemists under the name of urethane. This drug, which is obtained by combining urea with alcohol, is administered hypodermically, like morphine, with a syringe.

A short time after the injection has been made the animal becomes drowsy and soon passes into a state of very deep unconsciousness. Inevitably to pain is complete and any operation may be carried out with perfect security. The animal remains in this insensible state for some hours, and then gradually regains consciousness.

The great advantage of urethane is said to be the fact that heart failure never occurs when it is properly used. Should the drug be given in an overdose death will, of course, take place, but that is due primarily to failure of breathing. The importance of this is not clear until one realizes that the majority of deaths under chloroform occur as the result of heart failure. When breathing stops, as it frequently does during the administration of an inhaled anæsthetic, it can usually be started again by artificial respiration, always provided that the heart is still beating. The assurance that in all cases of overdose the breathing would be affected before the heart—and not after it—would be an immense comfort to the surgeon and anæsthetist.

Another advantage of the new anæsthetic is the fact that its administration is not attended by the choking sensation experienced with ether and chloroform, which are given under a mask. Moreover, after urethane sickness does not take place. Thus the ever-present danger of vomiting giving way and ligatures slipping off during the process of retching is avoided.

On the other hand, a very prolonged period of insensibility—about six hours—follows the administration of urethane. It has not, so far, been found possible to shorten this time. Whether the advantages will outweigh this undoubted disadvantage remains to be seen. In the meantime the anæsthetic is proving a great boon to those carrying out experimental operations on animals.

At a quarter to nine it was decided to remove Mme. Caillaux to Saint-Lazare Prison. An excited crowd had by this time filled the street outside, and an organized procession of young men marched down the boulevard shouting, "Caillaux assassin!" M. Caillaux left the police station by the door of a grocer's shop, and his car as it drove away was greeted with hoots by the crowd.

M. Caillaux's resignation has been accepted. It is stated that efforts were made to induce M. Caillaux to withdraw his resignation, but it is almost impossible to believe that they were undertaken with any serious hope of success.

M. Caillaux's Position.

The trial may prove to be as sensational as the crime. Behind the drama lies the smouldering lava of hatred and personal enmity. M. Caillaux called at the Ministry of Finance and saw one or two personal friends, to whom he declared that his political life was over and that he would not seek re-election next month. The trying hours through which he had passed appeared to have affected him deeply, and he has more than once since last night heard the mob clamouring against him. This morning some hundreds of students gathered outside the Figaro offices and shouted, "Down with Caillaux the Robber!" They afterwards tried to make their way along the boulevard. The police intervened and dispersed them without difficulty, making one or two arrests.

In order to prevent the recurrence of these scenes the Prefect of Police has ordered the Republican Guard to keep the barracks, and a special company of mounted guards is kept in readiness to check any further demonstrations.

The columns of the morning papers are full of the tragedy. Some of their comments are almost indecent in their ferocity; for many of them the importance of the crime is that it has swept for ever M. Caillaux from the path of power.

MURDER AND POLITICS.

No more amazing story of real life has been told for years than is related to-day in another column where is set forth, in detail, the murder of the editor of a French paper by the wife of a famous Minister. The crime formed the climax of a long and bitter controversy which had been going on for months, between M. Gaston Calmette, the managing editor of the Figaro and M. Joseph Caillaux, the Minister of Finance. The charges made by the Figaro were bitter and were made with much violence. M. Calmette attacked every aspect of M. Caillaux's activity alike, as private financier and as Minister of Finance, and his articles did not show up M. Caillaux in a favourable light. Finally, on March 5, the Figaro accused M. Caillaux of having made his change of front in regard to the immunity of French Rentes from taxation in order to influence the Stock Exchange and to profit by the sudden rise in the price of Rentes. It alleged that he put $40,000 into the pockets of his friends by this means.

There can be no doubt that the articles did much to damage M. Caillaux in the eyes of the people, but they are not sufficient to explain why Mme. Caillaux should have intervened in such a fashion. What good she expected to do her husband by shooting M. Calmette it is impossible to say. It would almost seem, indeed, as though she cannot at the moment have been in full possession of her faculties or she must have recognised that her action could have but one end—the wrecking, at least for a very long time, of her husband's prospects. That is exactly what has happened. M. Caillaux immediately resigned and his resignation was accepted. Mme. Caillaux, to be sure, alleges that she intended only to give her victim "a lesson," but the story of the crime reads as though the attack had been carefully planned and carried out with much deliberation and even ferocity. Whatever her original intention, there will be few people to doubt that when it came to a meeting she was in deadly earnest.

That the French Cabinet is unpopular has been evident for a long time, and the crime may either turn the tide in its favour or increase its difficulties. The spectacle of a wife trying to avenge her husband's wrongs may appeal to the popular imagination and excite sympathy with his party or it may bring that party to the ground. At any rate the crime has had the effect of removing M. Caillaux from politics, and in many ways that is regrettable. Whether the charges were true, wholly or in part, he was the strongest man in the Government and a great career lay before him. He had been Prime Minister and he would almost certainly have become Prime Minister again. He might even have become President. Perhaps, again, the affair may have the result of having the charges against M. Caillaux fully investigated. Rightly or wrongly, French politics at present are regarded as full of intrigue and sordidness. A full enquiry would do much either to clear them or to prove them clear.

Helena May Institute.

It is good to see that donations are still coming in for the Helena May Institute Fund. Such objects very often get a fairly good start and are promptly forgotten. People have a way of taking it that, having begun well, other people will see to it that the good work is continued. Nothing of the kind appears to be happening in this case. There is, apparently, always an odd donation coming in, and it is to be hoped that this will continue for quite a long time. An institute of this kind cannot be too well equipped, and we are sure that those who are carrying through the work, now that they are relieved of all anxiety on the score of money for the building itself, will find good use for all the subscriptions that have come to hand and for many more.

The Deportees' Advocate.

The statement, made in yesterday's telegrams, that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and Mr. J. A. Seddon are proceeding to South Africa on behalf of the deported labourers raises a smile. They are to interview General Botha and to present a memorial representing the views of the British labour movement against the deportations. It is to be hoped that the two gentlemen will have a nice jaunt and will feel all the fitter for the trip, for it is doubtful whether it will effect any other useful purpose that could not equally have been served without travelling all that way. To begin with, it may be taken as certain that General Botha knows, fairly well, what are the views of the British labour movement. He could, in fact, guess them in once. And anything fresh which has to be said could have been included in the memorial which could have been posted. Still, if the labour men want a heart-to-heart talk that is their affair. Developing China by Germans.

According to one of the leading Home Press agencies a determined effort to bring before the notice of the Chinese the progress of German science is about to be made. With a view to this end, a German Institute for China, under the presidency of Marshall von der Goltz, has been decided upon. The purpose of the institution still in the shell, is to familiarise the Chinese with the advancement the Germans have made in scientific study and, incidentally, to improve the economic relations between Germany and China. The institution will organize exploration parties and assist Chinese students who go to Germany. There cannot be the slightest doubt that not only does Germany want to impress the Chinese with the advantages of whatever scientific progress she has made, but also to show to the best whatever commercial advantages they might be able to exchange.

TWO CHARGES.

Alleged Possession of Opium and Lottery Tickets.

At the Police Court, this morning, before Mr. Hazeland, a Chinese was charged with being in unlawful possession of a quantity of opium and also with being in possession of three thousand lottery tickets.

Mr. C. F. Mason, of Messrs. D'Almada and Mason, appeared for the defence and though he admitted the unlawful possession of the opium, for which he said there were circumstances under which the fine should be a small one, he denied any liability on the charge concerning the lottery tickets.

At the conclusion of the evidence, his Worship found the defendant not guilty on the charge concerned with the lottery tickets, but on the offences against the Opium Ordinance fined the defendant $250.

COMPANY MEETING.

The Soongel Rumpah Rubber Co., Ltd.

[VERBATIM.]

The fourth annual general meeting of the shareholders in the Soongel Rumpah Rubber Co., Ltd., was held at the company's offices this noon, Mr. A. Danian presiding. There were also present, Messrs W. L. Pattenden and C. D. Wilkinson, directors, Mr. L. Gibbs, and Mr. C. E. B. Beavis, shareholders, and the secretary Mr. C. N. G. Walker.

The secretary read the notice convening the meeting.
The Chairman said:—
Gentlemen, The report and accounts, together with the auditor's report, having been in your hands for some time, I will, with your permission, take them as read.

The reason for this meeting being held so soon after the last general meeting is that your directors with the advice of your visiting agents thought it desirable to close the books at the end of the year, instead of on the 31st day of July.

Since the end of the period dealt with in the report, your directors, finding it difficult to borrow sufficient money to last us until the estate became self-supporting, have made a call of 1/6 per share. Unless anything unforeseen happens we think the amount realised from this call will be just about sufficient to last us until the 1,533 acres now planted are self-supporting and possibly to plant another 150 acres of coconuts, but in any case we have still 1/4 per share in hand, if the funds we have are not sufficient. As you will observe by the report, the output of rubber is steadily increasing, having risen from some 600 pounds in July to 2,000 pounds in December. January, and February being dry months, caused a lot of wintering amongst the trees and the amount of rubber obtained did not show any increase. We expect, however, that the next few months will show a continuous and substantial improvement. In fact we have recently been advised by our visiting agents that the flow of latex is becoming greater.

The number of tappable trees on the first 700 acres has increased some 40 per cent. in the last 6 months. The 88,800 trees mentioned in the report, are on the 700 acres first planted between October, 1909 and February 1910. On the whole estate there are about 125,000 trees but those in the 400 acres last planted are of course smaller and not yet of a tappable size. It will please you to know that we are getting prices for our rubber in Singapore which compare very favourably with the best home prices.

We have received advices from the estate that some of our coconut trees planted in 1911 are now bearing and that a small number of nuts would be obtained last month. If any shareholder desires any further information I shall be glad to supply it to the best of my ability.

There being no questions I propose the report and accounts be adopted and passed.

Mr. Beavis:—I have much pleasure in seconding.
The Chairman:—Proposed by myself and seconded by Mr. Beavis that the report and accounts be adopted and passed; those in favour?—carried unanimously.

The Chairman:—The next business is the confirmation of the appointment of Mr. Wilkinson, as director, and to elect another director. Mr. Pattenden retires but is eligible.

Mr. Gibbs:—I propose the confirmation of Mr. Wilkinson and the reappointment of Mr. Pattenden as director.

Mr. Beavis:—I have much pleasure in seconding that.

The Chairman:—Proposed by Mr. Gibbs and seconded by Mr. Beavis that the appointment of Mr. Wilkinson be confirmed and Mr. Pattenden re-elected for the ensuing year. Those in favour?—carried unanimously.

The Chairman:—Next is the election of auditors for the coming year.

Mr. Beavis:—I beg to propose that Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be appointed as auditors for the forthcoming year.

Mr. Wilkinson:—What is the remuneration?

SERVICES CONCERT.

His Excellency as an Entertainer

A very enjoyable concert arranged by Lady May, was held last night at the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home, there being a good attendance presided over by the Rev. C. Bone. The programme proved most popular; Sir Henry May raising great laughter by his tale of "The Quare Gander" and Mrs. Cromie and Mr. G. Lammert gaining much applause for their various selections which were rendered in fine style. Leading Seaman Harrison and Petty Officer Stevenson, and the band of the R.M.S. Hampshire, also appeared to advantage. At the conclusion of the entertainment the chairman stated that the collection made that evening had amounted to ninety dollars. He moved a hearty vote of thanks to Lady May for organising the entertainment and to the artistes for their help, the resolution being carried with acclamation.

The following was the programme:—

- 1 Banjo Duet, H. M. S. "Hampshire";
- 2 Song, "I Hear You Calling Me," Mr. George Lammert.
- 3 Song and Dance Leading Seaman Harrison (H. M. S. "Hampshire").
- 4 Song, "Slave Song" Mrs. Cromie.
- 5 Recitation, "The Quare Gander," Sir Henry May.
- 6 Song, "Time was I Roved the Mountains," Mr. George Lammert.
- 7 Mandolin and Guitar Band, H. M. S. "Hampshire."
- 8 Song, "Where My Jarry van has Rested," Mrs. Cromie.
- 9 Song, Petty Officer Stevenson.

THE LAUGHING HUSBAND.

Bandmann Opera Company's Success.

Though the husband does not laugh all the time he is on the stage, he laughs so much, when most wise people laugh—least that the title "The Laughing Husband" of the play presented by the Bandmann Opera Company, at the Theatre Royal, last night, was justified. Like most productions of its kind the kernel of the play is obvious practically all the way through, yet it is the hub of much wit and merriment. Mr. Alec Worcester as the passionate Count von Salizal with a fancy for the sex, carried his part through without any corners either in his delivery or his deportment. Mr. Bobby Roberts does not come on until late, but when he does he keeps the house in roars of laughter with his interpretation of Dr. Rosenrot, the divorce specialist with pacific and reconciling tendencies. The leading role was in the hands of Mr. Fred Coyne, and the applause he received was the soundest testimony to his success. Other artistes who contributed with merit to the performance were: Miss Babs Kendall, Miss Beatrice Rowe, Miss Addie Lennard, Mr. Gondolpho and Miss Nellie Lomas, the latter being worthy of special mention.

To night for the farewell performance, "The Balkan Princess" will occupy the boards.

CHIEF JUSTICE.

Going Home on Leave Shortly.

The Chief Justice, Sir William Rees Davies, goes home on leave on Thursday next. He will be away for about six months.

Mr. F. A. Hazeland will act as Paines Judge during the absence of the Chief Justice.

The Chairman:—Two hundred dollars.

Mr. Beavis:—At two hundred dollars.

Mr. Gibbs:—I beg to second that.

The Chairman:—Proposed by Mr. Beavis and seconded by Mr. Gibbs that Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be elected auditors at a remuneration of two hundred dollars. Those in favour?—Carried unanimously.

The Chairman:—That is all the business.

EASTER OFFERINGS.

Important Decision by the Church Body.

Four years ago the Bishop of Victoria, (Dr. Lander) issued an appeal to the various Church bodies and Vestries under his jurisdiction to consider the custom, that obtained in the early centuries of the Christian era, of devoting the Easter Day collections as a special gift to the clergyman in charge of each congregation. Most of the Churches in the Diocese, at once adopted the suggestion and have maintained it ever since. But it was not then, adopted at the Cathedral, as Mr. Johnson, the chaplain, at the time preferred that the Easter collection should be used towards meeting the existing liabilities of the Church Body. Now, however, the finances of the Cathedral have been placed on a better basis and the Church Body at their meeting this morning resolved to present the Easter collections to the Cathedral Chaplain this year.

The Hongkong Magazine.

"It" now comes forward under the name of the Hongkong Magazine. This is the sixth number of the Magazine and it is the best of the lot. The stories are varied and are set in the Philippines, Hongkong, the West River, India, and America. The other features are well up to the usual, and the magazine as a whole is very readable.

A QUESTION OF BAIL.

Cargo-boat Owner Charged with Larceny.

At the Police Court, this afternoon before Mr. Hazeland, Mr. R. O. Faithfull defended Li Shui-wo, a cargo-boat owner who was charged with the larceny of fourteen bars of metal valued $210, the property of Messrs. Gibb, Livingston and Company, from the s.s. Aldenham.

His Worship pointed out that the ship had not been cleared yet so they could not do anything until it was. He proposed to adjourn the case until Saturday.

Mr. Faithfull said he would be away from to-night until Tuesday, commencing business on Wednesday morning.

His Worship said that unless he discharged the defendant he would not do anything with the case without consulting Mr. Faithfull. He would allow the defendant out in a personal bond as his junk was in custody.

Mr. Faithfull intimated that he understood the defendant wanted his junk.

His Worship replied that if the defendant wanted to use his junk in the meantime he would have to find a bond he had either to elect to put up bail to use the junk or leave it where it was.

Inspector Gordon asked for bail in the event of defendant having the custody of his junk, to be fixed at $500.

Defendant said he could not find the money.

His Worship adjourned the hearing until Saturday, and permitted defendant out in a personal bond.

INDIAN CHARGED.

Alleged Assault on a Woman.

The hearing of the case in which an Indian constable is charged with assaulting a woman at West Point, was resumed by Mr. Hazeland, at the Police Court this afternoon. Mr. J. H. Gardiner, who appeared for the woman, called evidence. There is a cross-summons for obstruction of the police end of the road.

THE ROYAL GEORGE HOTEL,

Situated at Kowloon, within a few minutes' walk of the Principal Landing Stages of the SECOND SEAPORT IN THE WORLD and in close proximity to the projected Office and Terminal of THE KOWLOON-KANTON RAILWAY is for LEASE ON EASY TERMS, owing to the Proprietor having to leave the Colony.

This Elite Establishment has been conducted as a First Class Hotel and is patronised by the Residents of Hongkong and Kowloon and by the Shipping Community.

The Proprietor is in a position to convince any prospective Lessee that the business is doing exceedingly well, and that it can be turned into a still more profitable concern if taken over by an expert who would devote his exclusive attention to the business.

The Proprietor has already spent $12,000 in thoroughly renovating and re-furnishing the premises, and now very little remains to be expended except for converting a piece of Vacant Ground adjoining the Hotel into an Open-Air Swimming Bath, Bowling Alley and Open-Air Gymnasium, etc., etc., etc., for which it can be well suited.

No Good-Will Money Required. Inspection of books allowed to any one making bona fide offers to lease, etc. For Particulars apply to

S.S. "Kurehime Maru."

The case concerning the S.S. Kurehime Maru 3,548 tons, owned by Messrs. Itaya & Co., Dairen which sustained damage to her cargo off Yokohama last month owing to the gale, is now under investigation by the Dairen Marine Disciplinary Committee.

Fire on Board S.S. "Saitou Maru."

The Dairen Steamship Co.'s S.S. Saitou Maru, which entered Dairen the other day from Tientsin and berthed at Section "O" on East Quay, caught fire at 1 p.m. on the same day. The alarm was first raised by her chief mate, who discovered white smoke issuing from one of her cabins on "tween deck, in which, as ascertained later, the fire originated. The combined efforts of the Wharf Fire Brigade, the steam-tenders, etc., in port prevented the flames from spreading further, and they were extinguished at 2.10 p.m. The cause of the fire is unknown. The same steamer had a fire scare while in Dairen last October.

Lustania's "Record" Run.

The Lustania, recently established a world's "record," by steaming 818 knots between noon and noon at an average speed of 26.70 knots. The previous "record" for a day's run east was 614 knots, accomplished in April, 1911, by the Mauretania.

The Imperial Merchant Service Guild.

By the unanimous vote of the Management Committee of the Guild at their first meeting since the recent annual meeting Capt. T. V. Walker, and Captain A. B. Toms, have been re-elected as Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Committee respectively. Both gentlemen have been actively identified with the work of the Guild for many years past, and have taken a prominent part in the different matters concerning the welfare of the nautical profession and of the merchant service as a whole in which the Guild is constantly engaged.

New Russian Steamers.

It is reported that the Russian Volunteer Fleet will shortly be in the market for four new steamers, each with a carrying capacity of 8,000 tons and 12 knots speed, and to be ready for service in 1915. These vessels are intended to replace older steamers in the Odessa-Vladivostok service, and as the Russian shipbuilding yards are now so fully occupied with naval work for the Russian Admiralty it is highly probable that one or more of the vessels will be built in the

FOOTBALL.

Monthly Meeting Of The Association.

A monthly meeting of the Hongkong Football Association will be held at the Headquarters, the Royal Engineers theatre, Queen's Road, to-night at 8.30 p.m.

The business includes the receiving of report of Referee Board regarding players reported, fixing the date for the annual general meeting, and deciding as to match, "D.C.L.I. v Hongkong" for next Monday, to select team, make arrangements, &c.

Queen's College Win. Yesterday evening Queen's College met the Diocesan Boys' School on the Hongkong Club ground and after an enjoyable game ran out the winners by the only goal scored in the match. During the first half, play ruled very even and it was not until well into the second half that the College obtained their advantage.

Chinese Team's Victory. On the Murray Barracks Parade ground last evening the D.C.L.I. Band boys met a Chinese team, the latter winning by four goals to nil.

D.C.L.I. v. "Hongkong." Arrangements, as stated above are on foot to fix up a match on Monday next between the D.C.L.I. Football Team and the rest of Hongkong. Preliminaries will be arranged this evening and teams chosen. The match will take place on the Hongkong F.C. Ground and will commence at four p.m.

VACCINATION BILL IN SENATE.

Protecting from Punishment Parents Who Oppose.

A bill intended to protect parents of school children who are opposed to vaccination from punishment under the Compulsory Education law was introduced to the Senate by Senator Thompson, of Niagara County, recently. One section of the law now provides a punishment for parents who keep their children out of school, while another permits school boards to refuse admission to unvaccinated pupils. By the Senator's bill, the compulsory attendance feature of the law would be suspended in cases where the parents oppose vaccination.

A liquor dealer would be permitted to take out a license in "dry" territory, provided he obtained the consent of 51 per cent. of the voters of a town, under the terms of a bill introduced by Assemblyman Malone. The measure was drafted by the Village Hotel Association of the State.

BERWICK STILL AT WAR.

The horrifying revelation of the Manchester Guardian that Berwick-on-Tweed is still at war with Russia—because the Crimean War was declared in 1854 between England, Scotland and Berwick-on-Tweed on the one hand and Russia on the other, whereas peace was only declared between England and Scotland on the one hand and Russia on the other—introduces a new complication, in his own vicinity, for Sir Edward Grey. As for the Tsar, I doubt if he has had such a shock since the "Skibbereen Eagle" first cast its glittering eye on him.

Apart from this inadvertent state of hostility, Berwick has seen a good deal of fighting in its time; and it is curious that its ambiguity of position should correspond with the ambiguity of its Duke's principles. At all events, the Duke of Berwick (son of James II. and Arabella Churchill), who took service with Louis XIV., is probably the only English general who at head of a French force, defeated a French general at the head of an English force. The historic occasion was the battle of Almanza in 1707.

BILLIARDS.

Second Round of the Tournament.

The first match in the second round of the Soldiers' Club Billiards Tournament was completed last evening when the Police and Warders beat the 87th Coy. R.G.A., by four hundred and thirteen points. The honours of the two games played last evening fell to the first named team. Sergeant Brown beating Trumpeter Sergeant Palmer and Sergeant Pitt beating Gunner Binoroff.

The full scores in this match are:—

SIR LIONEL CARDEN.

Forthcoming Return to Mexico.

In reply to a question by Mr. Douglas Hall, M.P., regarding the absence of Sir Lionel Carden, the British Minister, from Mexico, Sir Edward Grey states:—

It would perhaps be desirable that I should endeavour to remove some misapprehension about Sir Lionel Carden's appointment and movements.

After 36 years' valuable service I desired to recommend him for one of the highest posts in South America when there was a vacancy, but as there was a crisis in Mexico I asked him last July to go there. Sir L. Carden reluctantly, in deference to this request, consented, but stated that for private reasons he could not stay in Mexico for more than a year.

The crisis in Mexico having apparently become chronic and various complications having arisen, I requested Sir Lionel Carden last month to come home to discuss the situation, and he will return shortly to his post. Neither Sir L. Carden's appointment to Mexico nor the condition upon which he entered upon it nor his present visit to England are in any way due to the representations of any foreign Power.

General Carranza says that he is willing to treat with the American Consuls on behalf of other countries, provided that those countries invest the American Consuls with full powers. This neither Great Britain nor any other country is likely to do. It would be tantamount to a recognition of General Carranza's beligerency, a concession for which General Carranza has doubtless been playing all along.

Dispatches from El Paso and Juarez agree that General Villa's troops have been worsted in the first engagement with the Federals at Torreon. General Villa is reported to have left Chihuahua in a hurry for the front. The upshot of the fighting, if there is to be a serious battle at last, is awaited in Washington with the utmost anxiety.

President Huerta has issued a decree increasing the Army from 200,000 to 250,000 men. It is expected that the new bank loans will be guaranteed by a property tax. The Times.

YARN MARKET.

In a Stagnant and Lifeless State.

Messrs. Polliswalla and Kotwall in their report dated to-day, state:—

In the past fortnight, the market has again reverted to its former stagnant and lifeless state. The total sales for the period are only 300 Bales.

The position affairs appears to be getting more desperate day by day, and cannot but be viewed with grave concern and alarm by the importers, who, with daily increasing contracts falling due, are yet powerless to compel the dealers to take delivery of such overdue yarn, knowing as they do that the latter are entirely in the hands of the country buyers, and therefore helpless to compel clearances, and that were they to enforce the terms of their contracts there would be wholesale closing up of the Chinese firms. To sum up the position, the dealers are reduced to impotence by the refusal of the country buyers, with such a heavy fall in prices, to clear their former purchases, and who openly go about satisfying their immediate needs by purchases at current rates.

This evil practice on the part of the country buyers, is of comparatively recent origin, and, if permitted to continue unchecked, is bound to lead to hopeless chaos in the yarn market. It, therefore, behoves the importers, in the interest of their trades, to take concerted action, and devise some means of putting a stop to such practices.

The outlook is beyond doubt gloomy in the extreme.

Total sales 300 Bales.
Unsold Stocks 42,000 Bales.
Sold, but un-delivered in the Godown, add to arrive 38,000 Bales.

Arrivals.—Extra Str. "Percia" from Bombay, and Str. "Apar" from Calcutta have brought in 3,000 Bales for Hongkong and 2,700 Bales for Shanghai. Shipments from Hongkong to Shanghai, and coast ports &c, nil.

Local Mill.—About 100 Bales No. 10 at 11/4.

Shanghai.—Nothing doing.

Japanese Yarn.—No Sales.

Raw Cotton.—No sales whatever. Stocks Bengal 2,000 Bales and Chinese 900 Bales. Quotation Bengal at $21.00 to $24.00 and Chinese at $25.00 to $28.00 per pound.

MISSING CODE SIGNAL BOOK.

Theft from the Battleship Queen.

At the end of last month a code signal book belonging to the battleship Queen, Captain J. W. L. McClintock, flagship of Vice-Admiral Sir C. Burney, commanding the Second and Third Fleets, was found to be missing, and up to the present no trace of it has been found.

It appears from the few particulars which are available that the discovery was made shortly after the departure of the vessel from Sheerness on February 23. The metal covers of the book were in their accustomed place, but instead of the code signal book being between the covers, another book of a different character was found there. The facts were at once reported to the naval authorities, and strict investigations have been made both on board the ship and by the authorities ashore, without any information, so far as is known, being available concerning the disappearance and whereabouts of the book. The Queen, when the book was missed, was cruising as a private ship with the battleships Russell, flying the flag of Rear-Admiral S. Nicholson, Formidable, and Implacable, and they were on their way to Margate, which was their base for exercises until the return of the Squadron to Sheerness on March 7. The Times.

IN DEFENCE OF BETTING.

Colonel McCalmont's Wagers.

Naturally the main object of betting is to win money; but perhaps it is not generally realized that this is by no means always the only object. Bets are often made by people to whom it is absolutely immaterial whether they win or lose. Betting in these instances is a vastly different thing, for instance, from the purchase of shares on the strength of a Stock Exchange tip. A man may back a horse chiefly, if not simply and solely, to obtain what may be called tangible proof of his judgment. He will derive extreme gratification after a race from the reply he is able to give to the question, "Did you back the winner?" On the other hand, he may feel a mild species of humiliation if he is obliged to say that he did not. He admits that his perception was astray, he lacked appreciation of a good horse, overestimated an inferior one, does not, in fact, seem to be so sound a critic as those who have won their wagers.

This is proved by the pleasure evidently derived at times by men to whom money is a matter of no concern when a bet "comes off." The late Colonel Harry McCalmont was rich almost, in the Johnnie phrase, "beyond the dreams of avarice," and generous in the extreme. It amused him to conduct large Stock Exchange operations, and as a rule they were profitable ones. His betting was, however, of the mildest description. Frequently he did not back his horses at all, but for any reason he had some small amount on one of them he was jubilant and excited if the animal scored. On one occasion a horse of his won and he gave it away immediately after the race, though it was quite likely to have added to its success.

Betting is by no means always necessarily such a debasing business as some of the purists would denounce it to be. The "market," moreover, has much interest for many who have no dealings in it.

AMERICAN DIVORCE CASE.

Dinner Party Incidents.

New York, March 17. A decree of divorce granted by the Supreme Court of Rhode Island to Mrs. Robert Goelet has caused a sensation in fashionable society in New York. Mrs. Goelet, a well-known Philadelphia heiress, married Mr. Robert Goelet, the son of the celebrated millionaire yachtman, in 1905. Miss Alice Roosevelt was one of her bridesmaids.

Mr. Goelet made no defence to charges of "extreme cruelty and gross misbehaviour" preferred by his wife, who recited to the Court a long list of outrages of which, she alleged, he had been guilty towards her in society.

At her dinner parties, Mrs. Goelet said, her husband gazed fixedly at her while advising her unmarried guests never to marry as marriage was a hopeless failure. She said that he sneered at her love of art, telling her friends that it was "damned nonsense." When she invited the Grand Duke Alexander of Russia to dinner at Newport her husband refused to attend the function, alleging that the Grand Duke was an improper person to associate with, although his own mother had previously entertained him. On one occasion Mr. Goelet told the guests that he would throw his wife out of the house if she should participate in a suffrage parade.

The Judge, in granting a divorce, ruled that "extreme cruelty may consist in insulting, abusive language as well as physical violence." The Times.

SCRAMBLE FOR CHINESE CONCESSIONS.

Japanese Competition In China.

PEKING, March 15. The Sino-Japanese Corporation, which was formed last year by Sun Yat-sen, ostensibly with equal Chinese and Japanese interests, but in which, it is safe to assume, Japanese capital will predominate, has definitely entered the field of industrial enterprise in China. One of the principal Japanese business men will arrive in Peking immediately with the object of securing, under the auspices of the Japanese Government, official recognition of the Corporation. There is every prospect that the activity of the Corporation will equal that of the Banque Industrielle and that its success will be even greater.

Meanwhile British enterprise languishes for lack of the organization and the financial arrangements essential to success. It has to be recognized that an era of scramble has set in in China, and those who scramble intelligently will now obtain opportunities likely to be extraordinarily profitable in the future.

The Yangtze Sphere. The intimation to China that the British Government expects its predominant interests in the Yangtze Valley to be recognized is satisfactory as indicating a much-needed stiffening of British policy. It is a regrettable fact that our policy in late years has been unfavourable to the development of British interests, and that the predominance we claim in the Yangtze has been seriously diminished. If our position is to be re-established it must be through private enterprise, for claims of predominance by the British Government are meaningless unless made good by the activity of our commerce and industry.

Tokyo, March 12. The Peking report that Baron Shibusawa will shortly visit China in pursuit of important concessions in the Yangtze district in favour of the Sino-Japanese Industrial Corporation is denied in official quarters, where it is pointed out that the object of his visit is to complete arrangements for Chinese participation in the enterprise, and it is asserted that no Japanese campaign for concessions in the Yangtze is contemplated. The Government recognizes that Japan is not equipped for such a competition.

A request for a concession for a railway from Kinkiang to Foochow has been made with a view to safeguarding an old claim against encroachment rather than for immediate execution. The Times.

DRINKING AMONG WOMEN.

The Bishop of Chelmsford (Dr. Watts-Ditchfield) preaching at West Ham Parish Church, said that in the past 25 years women had come into the professional life of the country. It was causing a serious disturbance in the nervous system of girls. It was disturbing the physical and mental development of women, and one found in many parts of the country a state of nervous hysteria breaking out in different directions, while there was also an enormous growth of drinking among women. When women of the country took to drink, as they were doing, then one understood what it meant to their home, their strength, and the future of the country. The question was, What was the Church to do? Overdosing, slums, and the conditions of labour required alteration, but they could not hope to get these things altered until man became less selfish. What was the relative value of Home Rule and making the people of England a sober body? Which would be the best for the country?

NEW NERVES FOR OLD.

The latest achievement of surgery is the restoration of paralysed muscles by repair and replacement of injured nerves. When a nerve is severed or severely injured the muscles supplied by it are cut off from communication with the source of vital energy, the brain, and become useless. Soon both muscles and that portion of the severed nerve connected to them begin to waste and degenerate.

Until within recent years it was supposed that such muscle and nerve wasting was incurable. The unfortunate victims of facial paralysis caused by injury or cold, of infantile paralysis, of paralysis of various sets of muscles in consequence of wounds and contusions remained without hope of any alleviation of their symptoms. Then modern surgery, triumphant after many successes, essayed the problem, and proved that if a cut nerve was immediately reunited loss of function did not take place.

This first step led to a consideration of the question whether it might not be possible to effect a reunion after a lapse of time, and when both muscles and nerves had begun to degenerate. Experiments on animals were conducted on a large scale, and as the result of these it was shown that if the degenerated end of a severed nerve was united to the end connected with the brain, the wasted muscles supplied by the nerve gradually recovered their powers. This operation was soon attempted upon human sufferers with excellent results, and some wonderful work upon facial and infantile paralysis was effected.

"Nerve-grafting." The work has now been carried a stage further, and it has been demonstrated that in cases where, for any reason, union of the divided nerve is impossible a junction may be effected between its degenerated portion and any other convenient nerve. This "nerve-grafting" is found to give ultimately results almost as good as those obtained by the older method of nerve union. The possible applications of the discovery are very wide. For example, the nerves of a withered or useless limb, the function of which has been lost through some injury to or disease of the brain, e.g. by apoplexy, if connected to a nerve trunk leading to a healthy part of that organ might again receive and convey stimuli. In that case the degenerated and flabby muscles would regain their power and the deformity be cured.

INFECTION IN A FOUNTAIN PEN.

A case of scarlet fever occurred recently at Weststone (Harrow), and the medical officer of health for Hendon (Dr. Leslie Romer) had the patient removed and the household effects disinfected.

Two other cases occurred among the older members of the family, and after a further examination he found that the probable cause of infection was a fountain pen. He had this destroyed, and at the last meeting of the Hendon Rural District Council a letter was received from the father claiming 2s. for the pen. Nothing had been charged for the treatment of the three cases in the council's hospital. The council, however, decided to pay the amount.

Holiday. As to-morrow is Good Friday there will no issue of the Hongkong Telegraph.

Extradition Case. In the Police Court this afternoon Mr. Wood resumed the hearing of the extradition case which has occupied the attention of the Court for the past few afternoons.

YACHTS FOR AMERICA CUP.

The Use of Centre-boards.

New York, March 16.

I am informed that each of the three boats being built to defend the America Cup will be launched on time—the Harreshoff boat on April 15 the boat designed by William Gardner for Mr. Cochran at Neponset, Boston, on April 20 to 25, and the boat designed by George Owen for the Philadelphia-Boston-New York Syndicate on May 12. The first trials will be held on June 2 at Glen Cove, and the elimination races early in August at Newport.

It is authoritatively stated that the Harreshoff and Gardner yachts are being constructed with steel frames and manganese-bronze plating. The Harreshoff boat is designed on the longitudinal construction plan and has deep web frames 7 ft. apart. The regular framing running longitudinally consists of angles and T bars. Angles are placed between the T bars to stiffen the plates. The Gardner boat has the regular transverse framing with a few web frames to strengthen the hull locally; these frames are placed in the wake of the mast at the heaviest part of the lead keel and at runners. The Owen boat is of composite construction—that is, it has a steel frame with wooden planking. The Harreshoff and Gardner boats have steel masts with, possibly, steel booms, while the Owen boat has hollow wooden spars throughout.

The three defenders all have sharp ends with particularly fine bows designed to make them good sea boats. The Times.

Shamrock IV.

There has been some little delay in the work on the new America Cup challenger owing to difficulty in obtaining delivery of the aluminium alloy which plays an important part in the building of the vessel. However, she will be ready for launching, we are informed, about the end of April.

Like the boat being designed by George Owen for the Philadelphia-Boston-New York Syndicate, Shamrock IV. will be of composite build—that is, metal frames with a mahogany skin. The novel feature in the design of the new challenger, as already announced, is that she will be fitted with a centre-board. This is due to the fact that under the universal rule of measurement to which the contesting boats are being built for the forthcoming races excessive draught is penalized, and under the deed of gift which governs the Cup contests a centre-board is not measured. Hence it has been adopted both by Harreshoff in the boat he is building for the New York Yacht Club Syndicate and by Nicholson in the challenger. Shamrock IV. will draw 13 ft. 9 in. and her centre-board, which is in the nature of a dagger plate, drops another 10 ft., which gives her a total draught, with her plate down, of nearly 24 ft.

THE REVIVAL OF BOXING.

Why Englishmen are Beaten.

Boxing is once more a national pastime. During the last five years the contests between famous masters of the game have been watched by crowds as inclusive as those which attend the Boat races or keep the festival of Derby Day; and what is even more to the point, the number of more or less efficient boxers, professionals or amateurs, has vastly increased—certainly not less than fivefold, according to one who is well acquainted with the progress of the revival in all its aspects. Boxing is now as popular in both sexes as football; it is cultivated at the universities and the public schools; and in London and the provincial towns, great and small, its advantages as an exercise for persons of scant leisure and as a training for the control of the temper, are generally acknowledged.

Royal Interest.

If any lingering doubt existed as to the right of this essentially English sport to the regard of all sorts and conditions of Englishmen, it would be removed by the presence of the King at the tournament of the 2nd Life Guards. There is no record, so far as we know, of the presence of any King of England at the ringside on a previous occasion. George IV. was a connoisseur of pugilism, and versed in the fantastic argot of the old prize-ring with its strange excess of metaphors, some of which—such as "claret" for blood and "mouse" for bruises—are still occasionally heard. But he ceased to attend prize-fights while he was Regent, his distress at the sight of an unfortunate fatality at Brighton causing him to vow that he would never again be present in person. However, his keen interest in the doings of Tom Cribb and Tom Spring and other pets of "the Fancy" was maintained to the end, and he would sit in a gorgeous dressing gown—almost as glorious as those worn by American champions of to-day when they go to their corners processionally in a cloud of seconds—and let his chocolate get cold as he listened to some great officer of State read a description of the latest duel with naked, pickled fists.

It is necessary to point out here that modern boxing is not in the least like the old perilous form of pugilism. Nobody who has seen a modern contest needs to be reminded of that fact. Unfortunately, the few surviving enemies of boxing have never visited the National Sporting Club or the Ring, and believe that the ancient descriptions are applicable to the swift and scientific game of to-day, which can be called the chess of athletics because of the mental concentration it requires.

Neglect of In-Fighting. There is much more boxing—good, bad, and indifferent—in England than in any other country. Boxing is a national game only in this country; elsewhere it is at most a national spectacle. When, however, it becomes a question of the art and science of boxing, we have to confess our inferiority to foreign nations. Many reasons have been suggested for this unhappy state of things. We have been told, for example, that the American athlete has an advantage in physique which is increased when it comes to games that require both strength and skill, by the training of baseball, in the opinion of its votaries a better form of general education for the athletic specialist than any of our Tudor humanities. There is probably a grain of truth in this contention. By the side of Jeffries, Johnson, Ruhlin, Willard, Palzer, and other mountainous American boxers of the past and present, the biggest men seen of late years in the English prize-ring dwindle into insignificance. Indeed, in the last 20 years only one English boxer with all the requisite gifts has been seen in action, and he was a true-blue amateur who never really cared for the game, much preferring Rugby football or cricket.

In point of fact the question of our inferiority was finally answered when the French boxers decided that the American style was superior to the English, and that fighting is an indispensable part of the modern game as out-fighting. The victories of Carpenter, Lodoux, Cruiqui, and other French boxers are a proof that they were wise in deciding that a system of offence and defence based on the "straight left" is not sufficient nowadays. The straight left, of course, is an invaluable asset against a rushing opponent; it is always scoring points and at the same time breaking down the other man's stamina; and, since the point of the jaw is the most vulnerable spot in every boxer's physique, head fighting must remain at least half the game—perhaps rather more. But until English boxers learn the value of in-fighting, which the most skillful practitioners of the old-fashioned style cannot evade at all times, they will be beaten by the American or "Americanized" experts, who fight systematically in both planes, attacking the body and the head, either or both, as occasion offers.

A Choice of Methods.

To the ordinary spectator the subtleties of in-fighting, with their fascinating re-velation of individuality, are meaningless; even to see them, when both men are on top of one another, requires a trained eye. The best way, perhaps, to help English boxers to acquire an art without which they will always be beaten by the American or French fighter in both planes is for those who watch boxing entertainments to take an intelligent interest in "mix-ups" at close quarters. They will soon learn that it is not the in-fighter but the out-fighter who has been caught, who holds and leans on his opponent. The truth is that a knowledge of in-fighting is the only antidote to the clinching, which is a blot on English boxing.—The Times
